MARION, O.—Defective hearing indirectly resulted in the shooting to death of Green G. Miller, 73 year old grocer. Robbers entered his store, ordered everyone to elevate his hands. Miller, not hearing the command failed to comply and was killed.

BOSTON, MASS. — Twelve years ago John Carsi arrived here from Greece, a penniless immigrant. Yesterday he fed 6,000 of the city's poor and needy in his four restaurants.

WASHINGTON— The likeness of the late William Jennings Bryan is to be perpetuated in stone by Gutzon Borglum. The pose will represent him delivering an address in the house.

OSSINING, N. Y.—Sing Sing prisoners, by special privilege, were allowed to battle cell doors to celebrate the New Year. For some time arrival of 1932 meant a step nearer liberty; to others, facing life long confinement, it meant nothing at all.

ALPHA, N. J.—Believed to be the youngest mayor in the United States, Leo A. Sokolowski, 23, has been sworn into office.

CALTANISSETTA, SICILY — Two murderers of a young boy were executed at dawn today in the most ignominous manner possible under Sicilian law—they were strapped in chairs and shot in the back by firing squads. They were to have been executed yesterday, but authorities decided it was not an appropriate way to start he New Year.

TRI-COUNTY SHOW AND INSTITUTE TO BE IN KNIGHTSTOWN

More Than $250 in Premiums Will Be Given to Winners in Various Lines of Competition.

RUSH-HANCOCK AND HENRY TOWNSHIPS

The tri-county institute and corn show with exhibitors from Rush, Hancock and Henry counties competing for an attractive premium list, will be held Monday night and Tuesday in the Knightstown high school gymnasium.

The committee in charge of the institute is composed of Cecil McNew, chairman; Claude Sears, secretary-treasurer, Chase Hiner, superintendent corn department and Mrs. Lois Hiner, superintendent women's department.

More than $250 has been subscribed to pay premiums and to defray the expenses of the institute.

Unusual interest is being shown, W. G. Smith, Henry County agent announced and it is expected that hundreds of farmers from the three counties will attend the institute or exhibit entries in the various classes.

The institute will open formally Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, but exhibits must be in place by Monday noon.

The program will open Monday night with music by the Brumfield orchestra. A reading by Mrs. Pearl Rifner will follow and a three act play is to be presented by the Jefferson township farm bureau of Hancock county. Music by an accordian trio will conclude Monday evening's program of entertainment.

The institute will open at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Following special music by Mary Starkey of the Indiana Soldiers' and Sailors' home, Mrs. Lawrence T. Foster will deliver an address on "Putting Our Own Foods to Their Best Uses."

W. H. Senour will give an address on "The Key to Profitable Livestock," following a reading by Mildred Hawkins.

Mrs. Foster and Mr. Senour are also on the program for the afternoon session, which opens at 1 o'clock.

AUTHORITIES OF MANY CITIES IN PROBE OF BOMBS

Federal and Local Officers Throughout Country, Work on Case.

AT LEAST DOZEN BOMBS ARE FOUND

Mail and Express Shipments Watched Closely — Guard Many Places.

(By the Associated Press)

Federal and local authorities in many cities worked today to end the bomb menace which has spread through the east and middlewest.

Since Wednesday, when the first of the infernal machines exploded in the postoffice at Easton, Pa., causing the death of three persons, at least a dozen bombs have been sent by mail or express. Most of these were intended for Italian consuls or others identified with the Fascist movement.

Scattered bombings or attempted bombings were reported from many localities Friday.

Fourteen places in Chicago, homes and business houses of prominent Italian-American citizens, were under guard. Among them were the Italian consulate and the home of Guiseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general, to whom was addressed one of the three infernal machines received in the city Thursday.

In the mail departments of the Chicago federal building, justice agents and postal inspectors were working with the clerks, detaining each suspicious appearing package. In the various express companies the same procedure was being followed.

Chicago police exploded the bomb sent Castruccio, and said it was strong enough to have wrecked a large city building. It was set off in a stone quarry.

BALANCE LEFT IN FUND

Firemen's Santa Claus Fund of $13.91 Will Be Carried Over Until Next Year

This money will be banked, and used next fall to buy material with which to make toys for next Christmas. In addition to the sum listed above, enough money was left to enable the firemen to buy a small motor. With this they will install a jig saw in the fire station and will be better equipped to turn out toys for the children at next Christmas tide.

RECURRENT RAINS, HEAVY SNOWS AND COLD WEATHER, ARE CAUSES FOR MUCH CONCERN

Variety of Weather in United States Threatens Disaster as the New Year Gets Under Way.

(By the Associated Press)

Recurrent rains in many sections of the United States, contrasting heavy snows and subzero weather in a limited western area, graduated to torrential proportions in the south and threatened towns in the Mississippi delta district with disaster as 1932 got under way.

Swelling waters of the Mississippi menaced levees and isolated many communities. Residents of towns considered in gravest danger fled their homes and sought safety at higher levels as levees crumbled. Danger of famine brought a new fear to the refugees as limited food supplies dwindled.

Moderating temperatures prevailed in all except a few states. The Dakotas, Nebraska and western Kansas were under snow with the thermometer as low as 12 below zero.

The Rocky Mountain area felt warm sunshine yesterday with moderate temperatures in Colorado, Montana, New Mexico and Wyoming. Heavy drifts in the Dakotas and in Kansas tied up transportation and communication, blocking highways with huge drifts and wrecking telegraph and telephone lines.

Iowa's snowfall ranged from one to three inches but temperatures were mild.

Both the east and west coasts saw steady rains but the weather was unseasonably mild. A novelty baseball game scheduled in one eastern town had to be called off on account of rain.

Levees Give Way in Many Places Along Mississippi River, Overflowing in Several Counties.

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 2—(A.P.)—Crumbling levees held flood waters out of the towns of the Mississippi delta today but the danger of famine brought a new fear to the refugees.

Convicts and farm laborers continued to pile sandbags on the barrier against the steadily rising waters as provisions dwindled. Meanwhile Red Cross workers surveyed the flood area to determine the extent of relief work needed.

Tallahatchie, Quitman and Panola counties lay under an expanding flood of waters swelled by recent recurring rains as torrents washed down below Glendora into northern Leflore county.

Boats were held in readiness here to convey Tallahatchie lowland dwellers out of the valley in event of a general wiping out of levees.

Matthew Bayou, mile and a half north of Glendora, today was watched by rivermen as the point of greatest immediate danger. A break there would send a stream of water into new territory ten miles north of town to the hills of Tippo.

Batesville once more has been evacuated in the expectation of an impending rise of more than two feet and Glendora looked for ten more inches of water.

Levee tops around Glendora, Swan Lake, Sumner and Webb still were above the flood but workers reluctantly agreed they had done all within their power to save the towns and the situation now has resolved itself into a matter of waiting for developments.

In view of this aspect, flood workers concentrated efforts on providing food for the refugees. Most of them had scant New Year's day meals yesterday. The workers regarded more provisions a prime necessity and the need of getting refugees out of the flood area as paramount.

WEEK OF PRAYER TO BE OBSERVED HERE DURING NEXT WEEK

Schedule for Annual Observance of Protestant Churches, Completed by Local Ministers.

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO ATTEND NIGHTLY

Following an annual custom, the protestant churches of the city will join in union services with a Week of Prayer beginning Monday night with the first service at the United Presbyterian church at 7:30 o'clock.

The week, January 3 to 9, is universally acclaimed as the week of prayer and appropriate programs are presented in every corner of the globe. The week is set aside for this purpose by the Federation of Churches.

At a recent meeting of the Rushville Ministerial Association, it was decided that each church should select its own speaker. In only one exception, speakers from adjoining cities were selected.

The churches and the speakers for the evening have been announced and are as follows: Monday evening, United Presby-

LARGE BANK IS CLOSED

Peoples State Bank with 44 Branches in 41 Towns, Closes at Charleston, S. C.

Charleston, S. C., Jan. 2 (A.P.) — The People's State Bank of Charleston, with 44 branches in 41 towns and deposits at the time of its last statement of $24,443,690, did not open for business today.

Its board of directors, after a meeting, last night issued a statement saying it had decided to turn the affairs of the system over to the state bank examiner for a period of 30 days pending efforts toward reorganization.

The bank, one of the oldest in the state, was capitalized at $2,000,000 and listed its total resources in its last statement, September 29, at $28,773,802.

Congress Has Record; 9,000 Bills Listed

New Congress, in Session 14 Working Days, Introduces 9,000 Measures—Only Six Have Passed.

Washington, anuary 2—(A.P.)—One large sized record the present congress has piled up. In four weeks with only 14 working days, its members have introduced 9,000 bills.

As the members return to work from their Christmas-New Year holiday they face this mountain of printed paper, a number of measures, say the bill room clerks, which in the past has taken three or four months to pile up.

The house, with more than four times the membership of the senate, has done the biggest job of introducing. It has 6,659 bills, to the senate's 2,419.

Of the total a scant handful—the fingers on both hands would almost add them up—have gone even half way to passage. Among these is the proposal to increase the capital of land banks, passed by the house and now in the hands of the senate banking committee.

Thousands will die of neglect, others will be pushed aside by the emergency program, relief and taxation bills.

So far, since congress met December 7 only six resolutions and bills have been approved and passed.

They include approval of the international one-year moratorium; appropriation of $200,000 000 fr the veterans administration; a much smaller grant of funds for the employment service; permission for Olympic athletes to enter free of immigration restrictions; extension of the war policies commission, and a bill by Senator Norris of Nebraska amending the penal laws.

The first ten bills in each branch still remain for the lawmakers to pass upon after reconvening Monday.

Five of the first 10 in the house bear the name of Representative Laguardia, Republican, New York. Senator King, the Utah Democrat, submitted four of the first ten to that chamber.

Senator Walcott, Republican, Connecticut, submitted number one on his side, the $500,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation urged by President Hoover, which is to be reported soon by

ROAD PAVING TO PROVIDE ACCESS FOR MAIL BOXES

State Highway Contracts of Future Will Contain New Provision.

CONTRACTORS MUST EXTEND SHOULDER

Postal Department Approves Plan if Rural Boxes Are Set Properly.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 2—Future paving contracts entered into by the state highway commission will contain a clause that contractors shall place gravel or stone on the road shoulder or berm in front of each rural mail box if set at proper distance from the pavement edge.

This action was taken by the commissioners following a controversy between a down-state postmaster and rural patrons who insisted upon setting their mail boxes up against the pavement edge because a rural carrier would not leave his vehicle to deliver mail when he found it impossible to drive over the soft shoulder.

The postmaster appealed to both the Postmaster General and to the Highway Commission for a solution, and commission action was to instruct Wm. J. Titus, chief engineer, to incorporate the clause into all future paving contracts.

Arch Coleman, First Assistant Postmaster General, writes the highway commission that the Postal Department expects postmasters to cooperate with road officials, and require rural patrons to erect mail boxes at a sufficient distance beyond the edge of the pavement line and in such a position they do not obstruct or menace traffic. However, the postal ruling is that Friends may call at the late residence until two o'clock Monday afternoon.

LEAP YEAR COMMANDMENTS TO GUIDE THE FAIR SEX

Kansas City, Kas., Jan. 2 (A.P.) — Judge Henry Meade of the Wyandotte county probate court has announced ten commandments to guide women seeking to take advantage of leap year.

They follow:

Don't pick a sheik.

Don't let a handsome face influence your better judgment.

Don't shy from the bashful because the bashful are shy.

Consider the man who considers his nickles.

Believe not that the man with the motor car has the only vehicle to happiness.

Remember clothes may make the man and fill the clothes closet, but they don't fill the pantry.

Don't delay a proposal because he is old fashioned. He may be like your father.

Demand much character, but be satisfied with a small part of the pay check.

Don't be finicky; you have many faults yourself.

Let love be the only consideration; after all nothing else counts.

FUNERAL ON WEDNESDAY

Services for John L. Shauck, Former Resident, Will Be Held at Ben Davis Church.

Funeral services for John L. Shauck, former resident and pioneer educator of this county, who expired at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James L. Brown, in Spokane, Washington, Thursday morning, will be held at the Ben Davis Creek church Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The Rev. E. S. Conner of Indianapolis, former pastor of the Arlington Christian church, will be in charge. Interment will be made in the Ben Davs Creek cemetery.

Mrs. Brown left Spokane, Washington, Saturday morning, accompanying the body and will arrive in Arlington Monday evening where the body will be taken to the home of Dr. A. G. Shauck, son of the deceased.

WILL ORGANIZE GROUP TO STUDY AMERICAN CIVICS

United States Society Will Select Representatives in County.

ADVISORY BOARD IS OF PROMINENT MEN

Purpose Is to Increase Interest of Students in U. S. Government.

Announcement of a nationwide movement, with representatives in this and other cities throughout the country, for the purpose of increasing interest of students in high schools and colleges in the study of government, was received today from Washington.

The organization, which will be known as The United States Society, will be non-partisan and non-political and will confine its activities to the free distribution of current materials on governmental affairs. The national board of advisors of the society consists of former President Calvin Coolidge, Elihu Root, Newton D. Baker, John Grier Hibben and Owen D. Young. Local chairmen will be announced shortly.

David Lawrence, who has accepted the national chairmanship, announced its purposes in an address before the recent meeting of the Political Science Association of America.

"Our object," he explained, "is to develop from among the youth of America informed leaders for the nation. Conditions are changing so rapidly that text-books quickly grow out of date and must be supplemented by a constant flow of current information presented comprehensively and without political motive. The plan includes the free distribution of materials for debates as well as class-room discusion and the organization of model Congresses in the high schools and round table conferences in the colleges. Prizes will be awarded to the schools and colleges making the best record in the use of the materials and

TWO WRECKS REPORTED

Little Girl Uninjured When She Is Knocked Down by a Car Here Friday P. M.

Automobiles driven by Eugene Glover, city, and Robert Talbert, Morristown, were damaged badly in a collision at Buena Vista avenue and Second street early last night. The collision occurred as Glover was headed east on the avenue and Talbert was turning from Second street on to the avenue. No one was injured. Patrolman Price Cox investigated.

Susanna Pusey, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pusey, escaped unhurt early yesterday afternoon when she ran in front of a car driven by Charles Wells, city, at Fifth and Jackson streets and was knocked down. The girl ran in front of the car and was struck by the front fender, according to police.

FIRE LOSS IN 1931 AMOUNTED TO $10 PERSON

Report of Fire Chief Smith Reveals Several Unusual Things.

TOTAL LOSS HERE IN YEAR $70,195

Most of Loss Resulted from Two Major Fires in January, February.

The fire loss in Rushville city for 1931 amounted to a little more than $10 a person, according to the annual report compiled by Fire Chief Claude Smith, with the total loss from fire within the corporation limits being $70,195.

Two unusual things are outstanding in the report. One is the fact that the total number of alarms answered in 1931 was only about one-half of the number usually answered. The firemen made only 51 calls. The highest number of alarms answered in any single year was 1928, when 104 calls were received.

The other unusual feature of the report is the fact that for the first six months of the year, the loss was $69,028 and in the last six months only $1,167.

The firemen got off to a bad start in 1931 as the year was only 15 minutes old when the first alarm was received, and it resulted in a loss of $27,000. This fire was at the Havens-Callaghan store.

The second blow came just one month later, February 1, when the Reed elevator burned, and this loss was $35,000. These two fires brought about $62,000 of the total loss of $70,195.

The balance of the loss was distributed to several fires. Two residence fires, one at the Hillary Haydon home, and one at the duplex owned by Mrs. Lila Retherford, added a total of $3,500. A $2,000 loss was also recorded at a feed store in the building owned by Robert Barnett.

Alarms during the year included the following causes: shingle roofs, 12; defective flues, 10; bad grate, 1; awning, 1; gar-

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Very soon now, after many months of speculation about the Democratic choice to oppose Hoover in 1932, we will begin to get down to cases.

The picture will become increasingly clear almost from the beginning of January. Thus far no man has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination—any more than President Hoover has admitted his obvious desire to succeed himself. And a large assortment of Democratic politicians, although some of them seem to lean this way or that, are still on the fence.

At the Democratic National Committee meeting here on Jan. 9 we will get a much better slant on the actual strength of Governor Roosevelt of New York and of the opposition to his candidacy. And a more definite size-up of the potential strength of Newton D. Baker It will be possible to canvass sentiment among the assembled politicians and a significant cleavage may come as a result of Chairman John J Raskob's efforts to make the committee declare itself against prohibition. The extent to which Al Smith is prepared to fight the nomination of Roosevelt may also become apparent.

THEN in February come the first of the presidential primary filings, when Hoover and Roosevelt are likely to be smoked out from the virtually mutual attitude which is designed to make you a low-minded, gross person if you ever suspect that they haven't been too busy with public affairs to give even a thought to their political futures. The Republican machine is all set to do its duty of renomination as a matter of course and Roosevelt's political friends have been hunting assurances of delegates for many months, but both the president and the governor will admit their candidacies in such a way as to make it appear that they bow to popular clamor and are being drafted rather than following their personal inclinations.

The first break should come in Ohio, as it did in 1928 when Hoover first admitted his candidacy for nomination by filing for the primaries there. In Ohio a candidate has to file in person in February if he wants any delegates. The primary is in March. The track will be clear for Hoover. But the situation is likely to be different for Roosevelt.

OHIO is the home state of Baker, who seems more widely supported for the nomination than anyone except Roosevelt. Baker has refused to support any active campaign in his behalf. He would be just as pleased to be president as Roosevelt or any of the rest of us, but he won't start a fight for it. If he has made any subterranean efforts toward getting the nomination no one in Washington knows about them. And no one believes that he has.

Baker has just given his support to the "favorite son" candidacy of Governor White of Ohio. That seems to be the prevailing idea among Ohio's organization Democrats. But no one expects White to be nominated. If the state sends her 48 delegates pledged to vote for White on the first ballot or two those 48 would be a splendid prize for one of the leading candidates when the favorite sons began to disappear Baker, of course, would be much more likely to get them than Roosevelt

Roosevelt would be unlikely to file if Baker filed, for he would stand to take a bad licking. But he may or may not file against White and try to get as many Ohio delegates as he can. The prospects unquestionably are being studied by his political managers. who must decide what can be hoped for if they do and what if they don't.

But by that time there will be little point in concealing one's candidacy any more. In March the primary season starts off with a rush and 19 states will have had such polls by the end of May

PINCKERT IS STAR IN ROSE TOURNEY TILT

Southern Team Outplays Californians on Offense

Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Cal. Jan. 1—(AP)—A great football player who has been doing good turns for others for three years flashed briefly today as a ball carrier and enabled Southern California to win the mythical national championship by defeating Tulane, 21 to 12, as 83,000 spectators looked on in the annual Tournament of Roses game.

Ernie Pinckert has been a brilliant blocking back throughout his college career, good enough to rate All-American for the last two years, but he has had a minimum of opportunity to carry the ball. He has spent his football life out in front of somebody else, but today he scored two touchdowns and the Trojans needed them to stop a fighting but luckless team from Tulane university.

Tulane outgained Southern California, registering 18 first downs to 11 and carrying the ball 378 yards to 233.

But the game was won in the third period, when Pinckert did his stuff. He dashed over for the first score from the 28 yard line and just a few minutes later personally made full arrangements for an encore. Two smashes into the line moved the ball to the 23 yard line from where Pinckert carried it over again. The score by periods:

Tulane	0	0	6	6—12
So. Calif'ia	0	7	14	0—21

EAST IS VICTOR, 6-0

SanFrancisco, Jan. 1, (AP)—Crashing over a touchdown in the closing minutes of the first period and showing a decided superiority on both offense and defense, East conquered West, 6 to 0, today in a gridiron struggle played for charity. Some of the outstanding football stars of the country slipped and slid through mud inches deep as the eastern representatives adapted themselves to conditions in better fashion than their opponents.

Some 50,000 fans filled the stadium at the game's start but a steady downpour rained half the crowd out. Score by quarters:

East	6	0	0	0—6

2 County Fives Win In Tourney

Greensburg, Ind., January 1 (Special)—Two Rush county teams featured the play in the first day of the annual independent tournament sponsored by the Greensburg Y. M. C. A., in which 22 teams from all over eastern Indiana were entered.

The Rushville Coca Colas turned in two victories to advance to the third round. They downed Newpoint, 38 to 18, in the morning and came back in the afternoon to subdue New Salem, another Rush county five, 19 to 11.

Milroy pulled the prize upset of the early rounds by eliminating the Greensburg Y. M. C. A., leading tourney favorite, 26 to 25. Milroy nosed out Adams, 17 to 16, in their first game.

Rushville will tie up with Shelbyville at 8:50 Saturday morning, while Milroy will clash with Springhill an hour later.

New Year Preparedness--A Snappy Sports Review of 1931!

THREE EVENTS STAND OUT IN 1931 SPORTS DRAMA

* * * *

BY WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor

New York—In the year of sports that is ended, three events stand out as the most dramatic. They are:

The downfall of the football dynasty of Notre Dame.

The conquest of the Athletics by the Cardinals.

The defeat of George Von Elm, in 72 extra holes, by Billy Burke.

The year was marked by other important incidents. Max Schmeling, hitherto lightly regarded, establishing himself as a heavyweight champion worthy of the crown.

Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion of the world, demonstrated by his fighting heart and skill that he was worthy to be called successor to the title once held by Joe Gans and by Benny Leonard.

* * * * *

Battling Battalino, believed to be a fluke champion after he had hammered Andre Routis from under the featherweight title, surprised the fight world by proving himself one of the most formidable of the current champions.

Ellsworth Vines, coming on like a comet, defeated George Lott for the national tennis championship and, by his style of play, proved one of the most colorful players since Maurice McLoughlin.

Helen Wills Moody, coming out of retirement, clearly displayed mastery over the rest of her field by retaining the national championship.

Helen Hicks, husky eastern girl, fought her way to the top of the golf world by defeating a fine field in the Women's National.

The Navy crew, the last to be coached by Richard "Pop" Glendon, swept to the fore at Poughkeepsie in the national intercollegiate regatta—after which "Pop" resigned.

Twenty Grand won the three-year-old championship, establishing a new record in the Kentucky Derby, but his title will always be debated by adherents of the Bostwick horse, Mate, which twice defeated the Whitney galloper.

* * * * *

There were great events, full of the kind of color that causes Gus Fan to leave his seat and leap shouting into the air. But of them all, there was perhaps none to equal the thrill at South Bend when Southern California came from an apparently hopelessly beaten position in the last quarter to overcome the Notre Dame Ramblers, 16 to 14.

Or, to compare with the eye-filling drama of those dashes of Pepper Martin during the world series in which the Cardinals toppled the A's from their baseball throne—or the heroic pitching of Burleigh Grimes in the seventh and deciding game of the diamond classic.

Again, to measure up to the suspense of that grueling grind at Inverness when Billy Burke, son of a Connecticut iron moulder, finally edged George Von Elm by a single stroke after 144 holes of super-human golf.

Of these three mighty struggles, which shall be called greatest—Notre Dame's defeat, the Cardinals' conquest or the ascendancy of Burke as national open champion? Any reply must be debatable.

* * * * *

Notre Dame again during 1931 had been deemed unbeatable after her early season victories and that scoreless tie game with Northwestern. But, about the Irish some little of what they had possessed under Rockne was missing, a certain perfection of rhythm, blocking and selection of plays. Added to this was the fact that Southern California brought to the middle west perhaps the greatest Trojan team in history, a team that worked together perfectly, a team that seemed to be guided, too, by some master at sleight-of-hand. Above and beyond that, the Trojan team was one that refused to give up. It snatched victory away from the Ramblers when triumph had seemed assured, crowding into the waning minutes of play a whole season-full of unbelievable thrills.

The sports world generally had regarded Earnshaw and Grove as the masters of any baseball club under the sun. Ninety per cent of the country's experts chose the Athletics to defeat the Cardinals by virtue of these splendid pitchers and the bats of Cochrane, Simmons and Foxx. Yet it was not to be. An obscure ball player—Pepper Martin, from Oklahoma—stole the show, and a few bases besides, and batted the amazing average of .500.

* * * * *

For sheer suspense, probably the golf battle at Inverness was most exciting. Von Elm, rated one of the most formidable golfers in the world in point of prize winnings, fought valiantly against the former foundry core-boy and caddie who used to steal practice on his home course. The two fought so evenly that up to the sinking of the final putt the issue was in doubt. It was titanic golf, more like the matching of two unyielding robots than a struggle between units of flesh, blood and nerves.

In the end, Von Elm missed his putt for a birdie on the 144th hole—and Burke took the lofty seat that peerless Bobby Jones had left vacant.

MILROY CARDINALS TRIP MORTON, 17-14

Winners Stave Off Memorial Rally in Final Canto

A last-quarter Morton Memorial rally fell short at Milroy last night and the Cardinals took a 17-14 victory in a somewhat rough and ragged game which was listless until the final canto.

The count was knotted at 4-all at the quarter but Milroy had accumulated a 10-4 lead at the half. The visitors crept up a bit in the third quarter to bring the score to 12-8 but Milroy edged further into the lead as the fourth period got underway.

A middle-distance goal by Chilcott and an ultra-long one and a southpaw attempt from the corner on Bybee's part brought Morton back into the running in a hurry, and both teams fought savagely for the ball in the last minute of play but a Milroy free throw sewed the ball game up in the well-known bag.

Milroy's superb defense, which has been the saving grace for the Cardinals this season, held Morton to one under-the-basket fielder while all of the Cardinals' field points came from "down under." Failure to capitalize on good scoring chances when men were loose in the danger zone, however, kept the score of both teams down.

Foul goal shooting was pretty punk on both sides, Milroy making only 3 out of 14 chances, while Morton sank 4 out of 13 shots. Hungerford, who was sentenced to second team duty in the preliminary, was inserted in the varsity game and led Milroy's scoring with four field goals. Bybee, playing his second game of the season for Morton after an injury had kept him out during the fore part of the yearly grind, was prominent in Morton's play but Harris, big Morton center, was held scoreless.

Hall, Morton floor guard, fouled out of the game. Selby, a Milroy senior, just eligible this semester, broke into the lineup but failed to score. The Milroy second team also captured the curtain raiser, 23-10. Lineups and summary of the main game:

$4,000,000 Damages Sought of Officials

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 1—(AP) A $4,000,000 damage suit against 22 directors, former directors and officials of the defunct First Trust and Savings bank of Hammond has been filed in Superior court here by Dr. E. S. Jones, receiver.

Superior Judge Clyde E. Cleveland several weeks ago appointed attorneys to investigate the possibilities of a damage suit. He made Jones a special receiver because T. Murray Turner and W. C. Belman, previously named, were formerly directors or officials of the bank. Turner and Belman are defendants in the suits, which includes ten counts.

The BASKETEER

With over a week's rest under their belts, Coach Tim Campbell's Technical boys await the arrival of the Rushville Lions tonight. Tim cut his squad to eleven men this week and one of the surviving forwards is Wayne Huston, former Rushville boy.

—B—

The Indianapolis News, in warning Tech against any overconfidence, points out that Wilkison, last year's state tourney star; and Cruse, husky dusky center; are men on the Rushville team who will bear watching.

—B—

THE LION CUBS AND TECH SECONDS WILL PLAY IN THE PRELIM AND THE MAIN GAME IS SLATED TO GET OFF AT 8 P. M.

—B—

Last year's score was 25-20 for Tech at the local court.

—B—

Milroy still has the Daily Republican Goodluck Horseshoe. Morton made a desperate snatch for it in the final quarter of Friday night's game at Milroy but the Cardinals pulled away just in time. New Salem will get the next chance at the Shoe January 15.

—B—

Morton's play lacked the smoothness of other Morton teams in the past, the boys overlooking nice passing chances, and firing long shots. Coach Eder may have this roughness worked out before tourney time.

—B—

COACH ANDERSON AT MILROY PLAYED THREE FIRST TEAM SENIORS—ONE A REGULAR—ON THE SECOND TEAM AGAINST MORTON IN A DISCIPLINARY MOVE.

—B—

We again have to acknowledge failure to secure any statistical information on the game at New Salem. The school officials there have failed more than once this season to supply us with lineups, summaries, etc., of games at New Salem—so we ask Eagle fans to deal mercifully with us as we don't intentionally slight the Eagles.

—B—

Muncie couldn't put on its Mann-act at the Logansport tourney as the Negro center was out with an infection. Anderson won the meet, which was incidental; and walloped Muncie, 29-16, which was more to the point from Anderson's point of view.

—B—

Columbus 35; Shelbyville 28. This gives Columbus a Straight-8 Victory machine. Also this gives Shelbyville a headache.

—B—

OAKLAND CITY AND PRINCETON PITCHERS WERE IN FINE FORM. OAKLAND CITY TRAILED AT THE HALF, 1-0, BUT FINALLY WON OUT, 8-5.

—B—

Newcastle's pitching corps—or sumpin'—also did perfectly in the first half against Richmond, the Red Devils being on the zero end of a 19-0 score. The final score was 27-5.

—B—

Dawgonnit! Why didn't we schedule a game with Richmond this year?

—B—

Lebanon Has 'Em

Lebanon, long noted for its wealth of downtown coaches, is setting a new record in that respect since the Tigers fanned out after having the Hot Dogs on the run t'other night. We didn't know there could be so many gen-you-wine reasons for that defeat, but it seems that every mother's son has the diagnosis well in hand, and if Mr. Neuman had done this or hadn't done that everything would have been jake. Maybe they mean paralysis. All of which gets us nowhere, and probably won't keep Mr. Neuman and his Tigers from finishing out the season. The Hot Dogs aren't in a class with last year's Frankfort team, but a lot of us underrated their strength because they got off to a poor start this season.—Lebanon Reporter.

—B—

The Rushville Order of D. T. C. is not exactly extinct, either.

—B—

Nasty Joe

Wiley of Terre Haute defeated Rushville, 13 to 9, last night. Just to be nasty, we might add that this Wiley outfit is the same one that Newcastle defeated, 32 to 12, on Tuesday evening. Whereupon we repeat a peculiar noise, made by placing the tongue against the roof of the mouth, the sound occurring when the tongue is released.—Bleacher Blarney, Shelbyville Republican.

—B—

We trust Joe means tst! tst! instead of the familiar inverted cheer.

—B—

What About Raleigh?

Epsom, down in Daviess county, is getting quite renown by going undefeated through ten games.

Wonder if these state papers ever heard about Michigantown whose Ganders have collected ten straight wins, among them being a 35-31 victory over Sharpsville, which defeated Kokomo, 30-22; and several other pretty tough numbers?—Frankfort Morning Times.

—B—

Epsom plays in the Washington sectional so let the boys have their fun while they may.

—B—

Who's Number 20?

"Hardwood" in The Indianapolis Star, conducted by Albert Bloemker, selects the following nineteen teams as the ones outstanding in Indiana at present:

Muncie, Newcastle, Alexandria, Frankfort, Lebanon, Anderson, Jeffersonville, Bloomington, Bedford, Columbus, Vincennes, Peru, Washington, Franklin, Shelbyville, Greencastle, LaPorte, Shortridge, Connersville and Tech.

—B—

It's the big sixteen that counts in March.

—B—

THEY'RE RESOUTIONS NOW—THE L HAS BEEN KNOCKED OUT OF THEM.

EAGLES DEFEAT MAYS HI

New Salem's Eagles showed high-powered scoring form in downing Mays at New Salem Friday night, 42-18, in a rough tilt. Led by Molden and R. Brown, the Eagles swept into an early lead and were never headed by the visitors. Reddick, big Mays center, fouled out of the game. The New Salem second team also won the preliminary from the Mays seconds, 20-9. New Salem plays at Arlington tonight.

OUR NEW VIEWPOINT

If the depression is doing nothing else, it at least is causing a slow but steady and significant shift in the average American's viewpoint on political theories.

In the years of prosperity we went, almost unanimously, for the policy of helping the man at the bottom by boosting the man at the top.

We felt that the best way to provide a reasonable amount of happiness, leisure and contentment for the mass of the people was to give business and finance a free hand. If they prospered greatly, the rest of us would prosper at least a little. To suggest putting any sort of check on industry was to be guilty of heresy.

Lately the opposite theory has been coming into its own again. Such men as Governor Gifford Pinchot have been saying things that sound remarkably like the war-cries of 1912, when great wealth was feared and jealously watched. The pendulum is swinging; a Theodore Roosevelt or a Woodrow Wilson could find a following in the land once more.

Now all of this does not mean that an immediate, far-reaching change in national policy is inevitable. It does not necessarily mean that we would be better off if we adopted more radical political and economic creeds. It simply means that our political life is in the process of getting shaken down to a more healthy and logical basis.

In any two-party system of popular government the respective parties ought to stand at opposite poles in this matter. There should be a conservative party and a liberal party. In no other way can a democracy function as it should.

During the recent years of high prosperity that condition did not exist. We all went conservative. The politician's first thought was to prove to business that he was "safe." Liberalism had no appeal.

We are getting back, now, to a sounder position. There is about to be a dividing line in public life once more. This will be a good thing for us, no matter which side proves the stronger.

JAPAN ACTIVE AGAIN

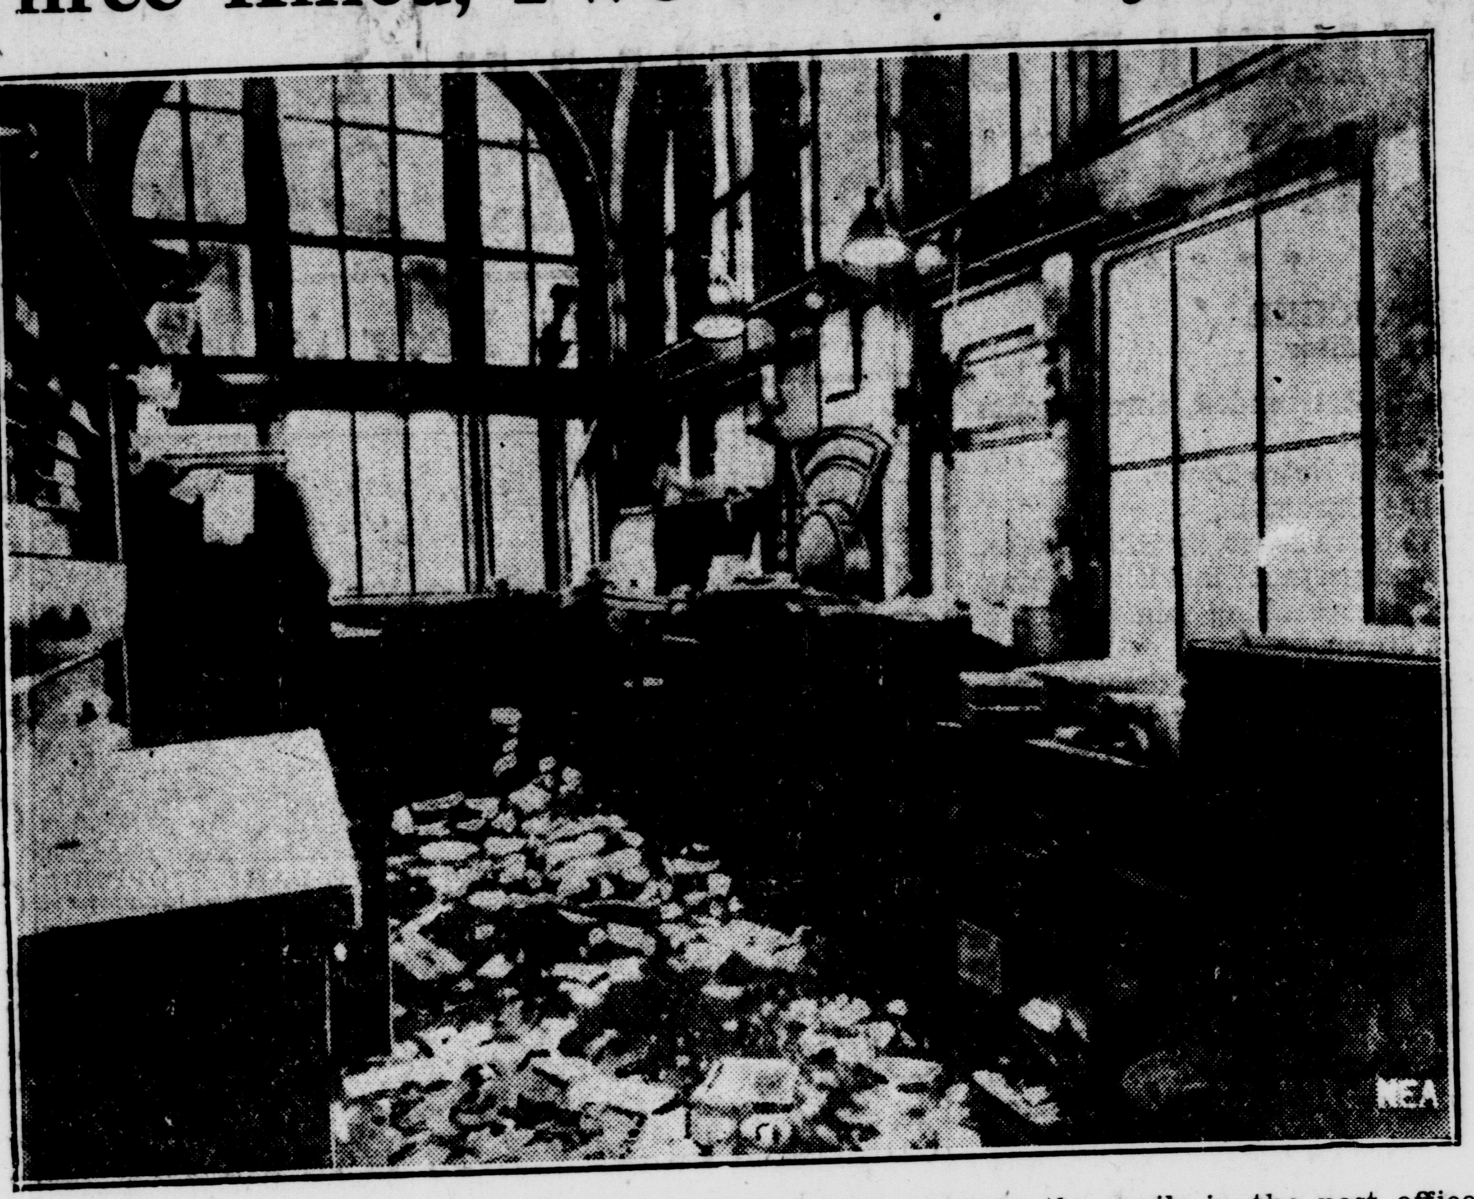
The results of the League of Nations' "compromise" with Japan on the Manchurian question are already beginning to show. Under the so-called agreement the Japanese were to cease operations in Manchuria and to withdraw as rapidly as possible. At the time the agreement was made all observers, excepting the blind adherents of the League, were of the opinion that the agreement was a complete victory for Japan, showing the utter ineffectiveness of the League in a real crisis.

Subsequent events have tended to bear out the truth of these observations. Latest news from the Orient is to the effect that the Japanese are once more extending their operations toward the important city of Chinchow. It will be recalled that in the League agreement Japan retained the right to go "bandit hunting" if necessary, and this latest expedition has for its Japanese excuse the putting down of "bandit depredations."

The neutral observer will be inclined to believe that Japan will never get through "hunting bandits" in Manchuria and that a permanent occupation of the unhappy province will be the result. In fact all of the actions of the Japanese in Manchuria are said by neutral observers to indicate that the Japanese intend to stay in the province.

The League has again been able to cover its failure by the window dressing of a "compromise agreement" but this has fooled nobody. France, the most powerful nation in Europe, is said to look upon the Japanese occupancy of Manchuria with favor, and as France goes so go its satellites in Europe and so go the League and the League Court. Americans are no longer to be fooled with assertions that the League and the League Court are "great, neutral, judicial bodies." They have found out better and for that reason internationalist sentiment in the United States, excepting that which is artificially stimulated, is one the wane. Americans are more convinced than ever that the thing to do nowadays is to save America first. That is a big job in itself.

Three Killed, Two Maimed by Bombs



The nervous actions of two men who placed seven pacgages in the mails in the post office at Easton, Pa., aroused the spspicions of mail clerks and led them to open one of the packages. It contained an infernal machine that exploded, jarred one in another package into action, killed two clerks, and injured two. All of the packages contained bombs, and one exploded and fatally injured Charles V. Weaver, city explosion expert, as he was discharging it. The dead are Edward Werkheiser, John House and Charles V. Weaver. The bombs were addressed to prominent Italians in New York and Pittsburgh, and the Argentine consulate in Baltimore. It is believed they were the work of anti-Fascists. This NEA Service, Inc., Telegram telephoto shows the interior of the Easton, Pa., post office, after it had been ripped by the explosion.—Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc., telephoto.

Capital Chaft

(By the Associated Press)

Laws of the last two sessions of the General Assembly that have a far reaching effect are causing considerable concern now that they are charged with the rsponsibility for enforcement.

The 1929 chain store tax that finally was upheld by the United States Supreme court, is probably causing the most worry. Attorney General Ogden and his staff that fought the case through the courts, are now busily engaged in trying to get all phases of the act and its applications interpreted.

It took one long opinion, listing scores of concerns that are held to be, or not to be, subject to taxation, to give the state tax board something to work on, and now the attorney general is having callers every day seeking advice about some particular application.

Among these are persons owning vending machines. A decision finally has been reached in this case that vending machines are not taxable if they are located in a store that is duly licensed, but are taxable if not. Another class of dealers seeking advice from the attorney general are news stand owners, who are held to come under the taxable class.

The tax board already is facing an injunction suit brought in the Marion county courts to restrain the enforcing body from taxing filling stations of the Midwest Petroleum Corporation. The company contends filling stations are not subject to the store tax and that if they are the law is unconstitutional.

A new angle to the much discussed store tax law is the probability that the revenue received from this source will not be equal to what was anticipated. It was the expectation of many officials that with the back collections from 1929 until now, the revenue would run into the millions.

On the basis of present receipts it appears possible that the total may not equal much more than one half million. It was pointed out that it was difficult to arrive at an accurate estimate in advance of how many stores in the state there were, and how many would be subject to the tax.

One of the other laws causing some concern now is that providing for the regulation of weight and dimensions of trucks operating on the public highways.

It developed that in order to enforce this law it was necessary to purchase six "loadmeters" for each of the six maintenance districts to check accurately on the weight of motor vehicles. Other problems also arose in connection with the administration of the act, including the question of how far the jurisdiction of the state highway commission and that of the state police extended.

Thus far the secretary of state's office apparently has not had much trouble with the new law requiring poll tax receipts before auto licenses may be purchased, although one opinion was called for from the attorney general before arrangements for distributing the 1932 license plates were completed.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO TODAY

From the Daily Republican January 1, 1917.

The new year was ushered in here in about the usual manner as in other years. The fact that New Year's eve fell on Sunday made no difference and the celebration was confined to watch parties, the ringing of church bells and the fire bell joke was worked overtime. Several false alarms being turned in.

The annual week of prayer services, to be observed by Protestant churches with union meetings, will begin tonight with the service at the United Presbyterian church which will be addressed by the Rev. C. M. Yocum.

A boy was born Saturday evening to the wife of Omer Collier in Cottage avenue.

Donald R. McIntosh, formerly of Connersville and well known here has been appointed superintendent of agents for the State Mutual Life Assurance company of Worcester, Mass., with headquarters in Indianapolis.

January 2, 1917.

The report of the visiting nurse given at the meeting of the Women's Council held in the director's room of the Rushville National bank last evening showed that 87 visits had been made to the sick during the past month. A part of her time, too, was given over to aiding in the examination of the school children with Dr. W. S. Coleman.

John A. Titsworth and Perry Oneal have formed a law partnership and will occupy the rooms in the Miller Law building formerly held by the firm of Watson, Titsworth and Green.

The twelfth annual Posey township farmers institute was held at Arlington today under the auspices of the Purdue agricultural extension department and one will be held at Mays beginning tonight.

Donald Ball of New Mexico, who has been visiting here, left this morning for Lafayette where he is attending Purdue university.

The engagemnt has been announced of Hiss Catherine Hibben, daughter of Mrs. Harold B. Hibben of Indianapolis to Ward H. Hackleman, son of Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Hackleman, of this city.

Supplying Work For Ex-Soldiers Puzzles Germany

Berlin (A.P.)—At the end of the year, the first contingent of 13,000 men of the German republic's post-war army and navy, re-enter civilian life.

They are completing 12 years' service, the term for which they signed in 1919 when, under the Versailles treaty, the huge German conscript army was turned into a volunteer body of 100,000 men.

What to do with these discharged soldiers is a hard problem in these times. Under the kaiser's regime, room was always made for ex-soldiers in the civil service or in private employment.

Today, with nearly 5,000,000 unemployed, it is almost impossible to find jobs for the ex-service men.

A special welfare committee hopes that a big land settlement scheme in East Prussia may materialize. This would give them free allotments, under light taxation and with ample facilities for farming.

Meanwhile there has been a rush to recruiting offices by jobless young men and the army authorities are having no difficulty in refilling the ranks.

Columbus (O.) Girl Kidnaped, Attacked

Columbus, O., Jan. 1—(AP)—Seven hours after she was kidnaped Adda B. Ruhl, 8, returned dazed, to her home early today. She was taken to a hospital by police who said she had been criminally assaulted.

Officials said the girl told them she was seized while on an errand for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Ruhl, early last night and held captive several hours in a garage by an unidentified man.

CHAPTER XXII

Cecily, who had made no efforts at wisdom, found Ann's admiration disturbing, annoying indeed, rather than gratifying. "Pooh," she said.

"Don't be engaged for a long time, Cissy," Ann went on earnestly. "Not for a long time. Things settle down so afterwards. It is much more fun and exciting and all to keep things uncertain."

"It isn't that exactly," Cecily said. "No. I like certainties much better than uncertainties."

Ann thought for a moment before she conceded, "Women usually do, I suppose—or they think they do. But men hate 'em, Cissy. Before they are married, I mean."

"If they hated them before they'd hate them after, just the same," Cecily argued. "Marriage is a ceremony—not a rebirth. I'd surely be afraid to marry a man I was afraid to be engaged to."

"I didn't mean afraid," said Ann.

"No, and I don't think you know what you did mean. Do you think Phil hates the certainty of being engaged to you?"

"Phil's different. Still, he is getting sort of—difficult. All he'll talk about, any more, is when we can be married."

Cecily laughed again. "These men who hate certainties," she twitted.

Ann yawned. No one could be expected to believe it, but Ann, yawning, was still beautiful. "Well, we'd best be getting to bed. Oh, yes, I nearly forgot. Marta called you up this evening during dinner."

"Well what did she want?" Cecily asked viciously. Marta at the moment, was intolerable.

"I don't know, I'm sure," Ann rebuked with dignity. "Mary Frances answered the telephone."

Cecily knew too well Mary Frances' proclivities, informative. Her, "Did she tell her who I was out with?" with its italicized pronouns was a long execration, not a question.

"It seems to me that she did; but—"

"Well, what in heaven's name did she do that for?"

"Well, what in heaven's name is the matter with you, Cissy, all of a sudden? I suppose the child didn't realize that it was a secret I didn't.

Cecily sulked before she answered, "I don't care to have my affairs bandied about all over town."

"Nonsense! You and Marta have been friends since grammar school. If you don't trust—"

"I'm not talking about my friends, nor trusting them. I'm talking about my affairs."

Ann, with her hand on the door knob, paused to be thankful that tomorrow would be Saturday.

"I'm not tired," Cecily denied. "That is, of anything except gossip."

"Simple because your little sister told your best friend that you were out with Barry you go off like this, raving about gossip. Are you ashamed of him? I'd be ashamed of myself Cissy, if I were you. You may think, right now, that Barry is all you need, but he isn't. A man never is. You'll need your girl friends as much as you ever have. More, in some ways. Nothing is sillier than to give up your girl friends for a man. You can't drop girls for months, either, and then when you need them pick them up again."

"Who wants to drop them or pick them up again?"

"I'm just trying to give you some good advice, that's all."

Cecily muttered, "Which you never followed."

"What?" Ann asked.

"Nothing."

"Are you cross with Marta about something? Did Marta—"

"No! I am not!"

"You'll wake everybody up, shouting like that."

"I wasn't shouting. You're standing half in and half out of the room."

"Oh, well, Cissy. I'm sorry that you are feeling like this. You've been going too much—too much excitement. Grand said this evening that he hadn't seen you for three days."

"If he'd get out of bed and come down to breakfast he'd see me."

"Yes, I know. And next week you'll be at home. Grand and Rosalie are old, of course. It doesn't seem right to fuss and worry them. Still, if you have made a definite engagement with Barry for tomorrow afternoon and evening I suppose I can manage."

An engagement for tomorrow afternoon? None. For tomorrow evening? None. No more engagements, ever. So that was what Marta had been up to, slinking through the room and gabbling. That the girl had intended no good, Cecily had been confident from the moment of her entrance. That it would be wiser to ignore her, to refuse to listen to her, Cecily had also known. But now there was no evading, no escaping Marta. Honestly! She came forward in an utterly ravishing chiffon rag that rippled around her ankles and shouted, "Remember!"

Mary Frances, who had been in the kitchen replenishing her bowl with cereal, returned to the dining room singing loudly, "'Tis love that makes us happy. 'Tis love that smooths the way.'" She took her place at the table and reached for the cream pitcher, and began again, still not softly, "'Tis love that makes us happy—'"

Ann protested, "Well, Mary Frances, I must say! It's a good thing Grand and Rosalie aren't down to listen to you singing at the table."

"And I must say," retorted Mary Frances, "that Cissy isn't hurrying very fast."

"Hurrying?" Cecily questioned. "Why should I hurry? It isn't late."

"Just poking along," Mary Frances reproached, with a bitter touch, "Just munching. Not hurrying at all."

"Munching!" Cecily repudiated. "I am not. Where did you ever pick up such a word?"

"Mincing," Mary Frances substituted. "Not hurrying at all."

Ann and Cecily exchanged worried glances. Mary Frances, of late, was so often—well, at least odd.

"But, dear," Ann said, "why should Cissy hurry? Did you wish her to hurry for some reason?"

"No, I don't care." Mary Frances dismissed any suggestion of personal interest by lifting her shoulders and dropping them and humming a little.

"If you'll come into the music room," Cecily offered, "I'll play your accompaniment."

"You would," remarked Mary Frances.

Ann said, "Mary Frances I want you to stop being so rude. It seems to me you are just trying to be naughty this morning."

Naughty! That was nice, wasn't it? That was going just a little too far. Naughty—to a person who had memorized, from Rosalie's padded satin-bound book, Delicate Love Poems of the Nineteenth Century, only the night before: "Well, you can, you must set down to me, Love that is Life—Life that is Love. A tenure of breath at your lips decree, a passion to stand as your thoughts approve, a rapture to fall where your foot may be'" Yes, she knew it by heart. "'Well, you can, you must—'"

"And," Ann continued, "I won't have you moving your lips and muttering to yourself like that, Mary Frances. Why don't you answer me?"

"I didn't hear you, did I? I was thinking of something. What does t, e, n, u, r, e. mean?"

"Tenure? Holding— something to do with real estate" Ann said. "I'll ask Phil. He'll know exactly."

"So would the dictionary" suggested Cecily. "But I think it means—"

"Holding?" interrupted Mary Frances. "Could it"—intensely, hopefully—"possibly mean holding your breath?"

Cecily tossed back her head and laughed.

Mary Frances turned in fury. "Laugh! That's all, about, that you do any more, just laugh and laugh. I'll bet he's not laughing out there waiting for you by the hour. By the hour. It's just heartless. I'd think you'd ask him in, or send him off, or anyway hurry a little. Sitting there in front of the house in his car. It looks funny."

Before Ann had finished saying, "Who is sitting where?" Cecily had slid across the dining room floor, remarking, "Hurrah for the one!"

The sun was shining and the air was sweet, and, as she ran down the front steps from the porch, Barry got out of the car and came to meet her. She thought hazily, "I've never been so happy. This feeling is what people mean when they remember the happiest minute of their lives."

"Barry!" she said. "Barry!" and gave him both her hands, and he took them and held them.

"Do I look pretty?" he asked anxiously.

She stood back and surveyed him. He was wearing a dark suit that she had not seen him wear before; his necktie was just this side of gaudiness; his hair was slicked too much—she loved its frowiness—his, face, especially the hort, blunt nose, looked scoured like a little boy's fale that has been washed and polished too vigorously. The darling! He might make a joke of it, but he had, he actually had "dressed up."

"You look grand!" she said.

"I tried so hard," he explained. "But I had to hurry. I thought you might look out of the window any time after six—I've been here since then."

"Dear—dearest! My silly little sister saw you, but she told me just this minute. Why didn't you come to the door?"

"Afraid. Bashful. It was too early to call."

"Why didn't you honk your horn?"

"Any guy that sits in his car and honks his horn at my girl gets a punch in the nose. May I take you to your office? Won't there be time for a little ride first?"

In her room, as she pulled on her hat and searched for her best gloves, she found herself humming that foolish song of Mary Frances.' "'Tis love that makes us happy. . .'"

AMUSEMENTS

NOW PLAYING

PRINCESS — Buck Jones, supported by Carmelita Geraghty, former Rushville girl, in "The Texas Ranger," a western picture full of action and with a clever romantic angle.

"Suicide Fleet," Navy's Big Parade Made on Elaborate Scale

Thrilling action, colorful spectacle, a strong story and sterling performances by an unusually capable cast combine to make RKO Pathe's "Suicide Fleet" truly the Navy's big parade.

This sensational picture which comes to the Princess theatre Sunday for two days' run, has been produced on a big scale with quality keeping pace with production values. A story of the Navy, it uses not one warship but a fleet. In the sea battles actual ships are sunk by real shells in scenes as spectacular as any ever brought to the screen.

Three pals who love the same girl enlist in the Navy when the United States enters the World War. The destroyer on which they are serving captures and sinks an enemy sailing vessel that has been acting as a supply ship for submarines while masquerading as a neutral. The pals then volunteer as members of the "suicide crew" which mans another windjammer exactly similar to the vessel destroyed. This ship is to act as a bait for the submarines.

The U-boats arrive to keep their rendezvous, discover the ruse and open fire on the windjammer. Facing overwhelming odds, the American crew puts up a game fight against the submarines while a full division of destroyers steam to the rescue.

The battle action is breathtaking in its realism. Shells—and we have the word of the Navy they were real ones—plunge angrily into the sea or tear jagged holes in the staunch wooden side of the sailing vessel while destroyer depth bombs send water geysers leaping skyward. The supreme thrill comes, however, when a projectile from one of the submarines strikes the powder magazine in the sailing vessel and sends the whole after part of the ship hurtling several hundred feet into the air.

Billy Boyd, Robert Armstrong and James Gleason head the notable cast while red-haired Ginger Rogers is the leading woman. Harry Bannister has an important role and other leads are played by Frank Reicher, Ben Alexander, Henry Victor and Hans Joby.

MYERS, BUSH TO DISCUSS PLAN FOR ASSEMBLY

Indianapolis, Jan. 1—(AP)—The next step in the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation's plan for a special session of the legislature to amend the tax laws is scheduled to be taken here tomorrow at a conference between Lieutenant Governor Edgar D. Bush and Walter Myers of Indianapolis.

The lieutenant governor is president of the Indiana senate, while Mr. Myers was speaker of the 1931 house. The meeting set for tomorrow is in keeping with the farm bureau's efforts to meet demands of Governor Harry G. Leslie for an assured program before he will call a special session.

According to the plan Bush and Myers will select representative men of the various industries, business, labor and the farm for a committee which will attempt to devise bills that will take the tax burdens off real estate and farm property. Several members of the last legislature also may be included on the committee.

When such bills are devised, they will be submitted to Democratic and Republican legislative and political leaders for their study. Then they will probably go to the various individual members of the legislature so each member having a vote may express his views.

FIND RICH GOLD REEF

Melbourne (A.P.) — What is claimed to be one of the richest gold reefs in Australia has been opened at Combien Bar, 60 miles from Orbost. The first two tons of ore yielded 120 ounces of gold.

TROUT FOR ARGENTINA

Nahuel Huapi, Argentina (A.P.) — Launching a national fishing industry for Argentina's inland lakes, the ministry of agriculture has planted in Lake Traful, near the Chilean border, 50,000 Atlantic salmon and river trout eggs. Similar plantings have been made at other lakes.

Many Lives Claimed as Nation Greets New Year

(By Associated Press)

Heavy holiday traffic tallied 100 victims and accidents associated with the nation's New Year's day observance accounted for a score or more of lives.

Highways of nearly every state and skyways of the midwest were charged with fatalities in the rising list of dead last night. Burns, falls, a freak cave-in, hunting and a coasting accident swelled the total.

The midwest appeared to be the heaviest sufferer in traffic tragedies. In Illinois, nine persons, six of them children, drowned when their motor car fell 22 feet into the Calumet river while they were enroute to a holiday celebration.

An airplane mishap brought death to four passengers at Springfield, O. At Waterloo, O., three men lost their lives when a cave where a party was being held collapsed.

Michigan counted ten dead, seven in the Detroit area alone, as a consequence of traffic accidents which injured more than 100 persons.

Auto-train crashes edged into the holiday picture claiming four young people at a Philadelphia suburb. One automobilist was killed in Maryland.

In the midwest two died of accidental falls while celebrating and one of the injuries in a fist fight. Two more were injured by stray bullets.

A small boy was killed while coasting at Salt Lake City and Ft. Worth, Tex., reported the shooting of a Mexican mother of four children by a drink-crazed man.

More than a dozen auto deaths were recorded in the South, five in Georgia alone. Holiday dispatches from that area also brought belated news of a tornado in Alabama that killed three persons.

Publicity Wanted by Gandhi for Arrest

Bombay, Jan. 1—(AP)—If Mahatma Gandhi is arrested—and his arrest is expected within 48 hours—he wants it to be done in Bombay, and not in some small town, so the whole world may know about it.

Reports were circulated that the government may deport the Mahatma to some small island in the Indian ocean where, isolated and far from the mainland, it would be impossible for his disciples to visit him and where there would be no undue commotion if he should die.

GAS LAMPS IN BERLIN

Berlin (A.P.) — Although electricity is rapidly replacing gas for street lighting, 104,000 of the old lamp posts still illuminate certain sections of the German capital.

GERMANS QUITTING BEER

Berlin (A.P.) — Reduction of revenue for Young plan payments based upon the beer tax is explained by consumption reports showing that the average German drank 19¾ gallons in the 1930-31 tax year, which is only 75 per cent of the pre-war figure.

CONGO BLACKS EXPECT MESSIAH FROM U. S. A.

Leopoldville, Belgian Congo (A.P.) — Excited by prophecies that a Negro "Messiah" was coming from America, natives in some sections of the Belgian Congo have begun to cause trouble.

The colonial press expresses alarm at increasing native arrogance and dwindling prestige of whites.

The story is being spread that the white men are to leave the colony and that the administration will then be taken over by American Negroes.

EAST BUFFALO

East Buffalo, Jan. 2 (A.P.) — (U. S. Dept. of Agr.) — Hogs on sale 2300; weights 160 to 210 lbs. fairly active to all interests; 10 @15c under Friday's average $5.10@5.15; others slow; unevenly lower; mixed offerings $4.90; some plain kinds $4.55; few 220 to 260 lbs. $4.75@5.00.

Cattle receipts 75; week's supply light; yearlings very scarce; early trade active, 25@50c higher; closing slow about steady; good steers $8.50@9.50; mediums and short feds $6.50@8.50; common steers and heifers $4.75@5.75; fat cows $4.00; cutter grades $1.50@2.50.

Calves receipts none; week's vealer market uneven; most sales $1.00@1.50 over last week; good to choice $9.50@10.00; common and medium $6.00@8.00.

Sheep receipts, none; lambs closed 50@75c over last week; midweek loss regained; good to choice native and fed western lambs $6.25@6.75; medium kinds around $6.00; common $5.25@5.50.

COURT MASTODONS

Moscow, Idaho (A.P.) — If height and weight are everything necessary to make a basketball team, Coach Rich Fox at the University of Idaho will have a world-beater this year.

Here are the specifications of five of the men battling for places on the Vandal quintet: Kenneth Parks, 6 feet 6 inches, 193 pounds; Howard Grenier, 6 feet 5 inches, 205 pounds; Wilbur McConnell, 6 feet 3 inches, 178 pounds; Edward Hurley, 6 feet 2 inches, 185 pounds, and Dan Aukett, 6 feet, 195 pounds.

The majority of Fox's veterans are in the medium size class, however, and it is not likely that all of the giants will win places. Parks was the regular center last year.

From Page One

Detroit, Cleveland, and Youngstown, O., received similar bombs, but in each case they were turned over to authorities.

Establishments of Italians at Trinidad, Col., and Paris, Ill., were damaged by bombs yesterday. At Bellaire, O., police stationed at the home of Angelo Cifaldi, Italian merchant, arrested three men and seized 11 sticks of dynamite placed under his house.

The fuse on a dynamite bomb placed under a porch at Seattle burned out in time to save the home of Yoshito Onoh, vice president of the Sumitomo bank.

Carr, et al, on account and to foreclose lien for $175; Bryce Stoops against the Pennsylvania railroad for $1,500 damages; Federal Reserve bank of Chicago against the receivers of the Manilla bank, claim for $714.12; Gerlach-Barkow company against receivers of the Manilla bank, claim for $29.16; Winchett Fertilizer company against receivers of the Manilla bank, claim for $37.21.

PINE NEWSPRINT BOOSTS SOUTHERN PULP INDUSTRY

New York (A.P.)—An exhibit of white paper made from the pulp of young yellow pine by the ordinary sulphite process has brought predictions that the center of the wood pulp industry may shift from Canada and New England to the south and cut the cost of newsprint two-thirds.

Dr. Charles A. Herty, industrial consulting chemist, says that hundreds of thousands of acres of abandoned farm land could be converted in 10 years to forests of stout pines which could be sold at a profit at $6 a cord as compared with an average of $18 for Canadian and New England pulpwood or spruce imported from Russia and the Scandinavian countries.

GERMAN TOWN TRIES GOLF

Muenster (A.P.) — To this town's attractions of museums has been added an 18-hole golf course. The course is laid out in one of the most picturesque spots in this section and was financed by the municipality for public play.

WILL ORGANIZE GROUP TO STUDY AMERICAN CIVICS

in the development of parliamentary bodies.

"In every state of the union, delegates will be selected on the basis of school records in debate and model state legislature will be convened in every state capitol at least once a year. From these 48 model legislatures, delegates in turn will be selected to come to Washington to participate in a model Congress. The expense of these activities as well as the furnishing of books, pamphlets and other documents dealing with governmental topics will be borne entirely by the membership of the Society. None of the officers of the Society will receive compensation for their services and none of the publications of the Society will be sold.

"This is one of the most important undertakings in the field of education which we have witnessed in America and it is timely now because of the widespread interest in the functioning of representative government throughout the world."

The Society has been incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia and its officers are David Lawrence, Chairman; Mary Roberts Rinehart, vice-chairman, and Breckinridge Long, secretary-treasurer.

SNAILS KILLED FROM SKY TO RID MEADOW OF PESTS

Washington (A.P.) — Killing snails from the sky has rid California pastures of a sheep pest.

Use of an airplane to spread a meadows is the final chapterx chemical dust over wet lush department of agriculture campaign to save sheep raising in the Sierra valleys.

The pest was the liver fluke, whose eggs hatched in the marshy lands which, late in the season, dried off and were used to pasture the sheep. Larvae were found to be sheltered by a great array of snails which, in turn, could be killed by spreading copper sulphate dust over the meadows. A flier did the job.

EGYPT HAS SMALL DEBT

Cairo (A.P.) — Egypt has one of the smallest national debts in the world. It totals about $360,000,000, or less than $30 per person and equal to the state revenue for two years.

ROAD PAVING TO PROVIDE ACCESS FOR MAIL BOXES

rural carriers are not compelled to leave mail if forced to get out of their delivery vehicle to reach the mail box. Where new shoulders are soft this is likely to be the situation in certain seasons of the year.

In order to extend the service and make state roads safer, highway commissioners took the position that the department should place the metal between mail box and pavement edge, so will include this work in the regular paving contract.

New paving contracts of the state department call for an eight-foot berm, and an agreement has been reached between the U. S. Postoffice Department and the State Highway Commission that where shoulders are six feet wide the mail box shall be five feet from the pavement edge, and where the berm is eight feet or wider, the mail box shall be back six feet from the pavement edge, John J. Brown, road director, says.
